

National Learning Aim Monitoring Codes

This guidance is for completing the National learning aim monitoring field A46. It is used to indicate that the learning aim is being delivered as part of a national programme or government initiative.

The field occurs twice, so you can record if the learning aim is part of more than one initiative or programme. The order that you record any codes is not important – except that '999' should not be in the first part unless you are returning '999' for both.

The valid from and to dates in the table below indicate whether this code can be used for a learner with a start date in this date range. These dates will be used to validate the use of these A46 codes. If no 'valid from' date is specified then any learner start date will be valid. If no 'valid to' date is given then this code does not have a definite end date and will be available for the foreseeable future.
